

Iron Mountain Entertainment Services

Iron Mountain Entertainment Services is currently looking to fill short to medium-term paid positions with qualified candidates with a background in computer science or programming. The general requirements of the position include technical ability such as working knowledge of bash and shell scripting in unix environments (i.e. navigation, log parsing, and text manipulation) as well as the ability to solve problems, identify patterns, think logically, and generally be a self-starter. Experience with databases, software programming, and hardware are a plus. We will provide the necessary training to complete the work, but only candidates with a strong foundational background will be considered to move forward.

Iron Mountain Entertainment Services is based in Hollywood, California. Those interested in submitting a resume for consideration may do so by sending a resume to Michelle.Zamora@ironmountain.com. Only candidates that we are interested in moving forward with will be contacted.

Thank you.
