

Microcontroller Programmer

We are looking for an electrical engineer senior or graduate student who has lots experiences programming microcontrollers. This is an excellent opportunity to gain hands on working experience. This is a part-time consulting job work on-campus or from your home. Our company will provide the necessary hardware and software tools to develop simple applications using microcontroller, ADC, and DAC, and other component and modules. We'll provide detailed specifications to you. Applicant must be able to work independently with minimum supervision.

Applicant can send resume directly to info@accelinstruments.com

Qualifications:

Senior or graduate student major in Electrical Engineering
Must have microcontroller programming using USB experience
Able to work independently with minimum supervision
Must be self-motivated to learn new engineering concepts