

I am reaching out regarding an exciting Software Engineer opportunity with Stripe. They are backed by all-star investors including PayPal founders Peter Thiel and Elon Musk, as well as Sequoia Capital, Andreessen Horowitz and SV Angel.

Stripe is a simple, developer-friendly way to accept payments online. They believe that enabling transactions on the web is a problem rooted in code, not finance, and they want to help put more websites in business.

The team is currently 20 and growing. This is a chance to architect, implement, and deploy your projects from end to end. It's a great time to join the company.

Are you open to new opportunities or is there someone in your network who might be a fit?
