

ULA Internship

United Launch Alliance (ULA) is the premier rocket launch for both private and government sector satellites.

ULA has posted their Summer 2013 summer internship positions and we are trying to expand the number of Women engineers we have applying and working at ULA.

We have internships available for electrical, aerospace, mechanical, weld engineering, computer science and business majors. Internships are available for first years through graduate students.

Students can access our website and career center at <http://www.ulalaunch.com/site/default.shtml>