

X17 Internship

Intern Wanted: Web Technician Needed For Entertainment News Web Site

One of the web's leading entertainment news web sites, X17online.com, is in need of a well-rounded webmaster/developer to help us start and manage an ad server and to assist with web design for our network of sites.

The position will start as an internship and could lead to a part- or full-time job within 3 months if the candidate displays the necessary skills and abilities to be successful in this jack-of-all-trades position.

Duties to include:

- set up account with free ad server service and manage various direct-sold campaigns with geo-targeting, frequency capping and the like, along with stacking these campaigns ahead of remnant ad fill (no ad sales necessary)
- assist with SEO for our sites: X17online.com, CelebrityStreetStyle.com, X17video.com, SellYourScoop.com and CelebDigs.com
- assist with testing and implementation of intra-site search plug-ins and comment systems
- assist with video compression optimization for web

We're looking for someone who could potentially take over the development work we're currently outsourcing -- someone who would eventually come on board with our company full-time. For the moment, hours are flexible.

Please email your resume and cover letter to Brandy Navarre at brandy@x17agency.com <mailto:brandy@x17agency.com>.